How To Use This Map

Step 1. Lay your compass on the map with one edge of the baseplate connecting the point which you are at with your destination. Make sure the direction-of-travel arrow points towards the destination.

Step 2. Turn the compass housing until the orienteering lines are parallel to the lines indicating magnetic north drawn on the map. Make sure the orienteering arrow points north.

Step 3. Take the compass off the map. The bearing at the index line is the bearing to the destination. Without turning the compass housing and holding the compass flat in your hand with the direction-of-travel arrow facing away from you, turn yourself until the red part of the compass needle is aligned with the red part of the orienteering arrow.

Step 4. Find a landmark (tree, log, rock, etc.) off in the distance along your bearing and walk to it. Once at the landmark, repeat this process until you arrive at the destination.

Tips

Always hike with a partner.

Be mindful of underground yellow jacket nests.

Always bring plenty of water.

The posts in this orienteering course are 4 foot orange topped wooden posts with white "900" numbers.
